Health for the Holidays

Health for the Holidays was a four-week challenge that started December 5th, 2022 and concluded January 1st, 2023. This challenge was different from previous challenges, as it not only had participants track daily physical activity, but also engaged in healthy eating habits, and practice positive emotional wellness. In completing each daily task, participants gained "one inch of snow" and those logging through a computer or mobile device were able to reveal scenic winter wonderland pictures.

Examples of healthy eating habits included: eating fruits and vegetables, no snacking after dinner, no sugary beverages, and eating breakfast. Emotional wellness tasks included: noticing something new, allowing someone to go ahead of you, reading a book for ten minutes, and so much more. It is important to remember that health and wellness includes balance of nutrition, physical fitness, and emotional wellness, and Health for the Holidays was a great way to acknowledge that.

There was 31 total registered participants and over 1400 inches of snow logged. More than 500 of those came from participants logging their healthy eating habits, and over 400 came from the emotional wellness activities. Participants really did challenge themselves with more than getting in their daily steps. "The variety made it more fun and interesting, as opposed to only logging steps" is how one participant described her experience. Thank you all to those who participated and keep an eye out for future challenges.

For more information or any other questions, contact: Nicholas Arviso @ (505) 771-6744.

In observation of Heart Health Awareness month, we would like to honor and remember the amazing efforts of Kathryn Herrera who was a part of our Tamaya Wellness Program for 17 years.

Every year during the month of February, Kathryn educated community members on heart health, prevention of strokes, the importance of checking your blood pressure, cholesterol, eating healthy, and being physically active. Kathryn was compassionate, devoted, kindhearted, and truly dedicated to helping others. Kathryn's presence is sincerely missed by all.

In honor of Kathryn, we will include a white ribbon in our Tamaya Wellness Program Bulletin for 2023 to help bring awareness to lung cancer.
